DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

The reference numeral "2" used to identify the balls in not properly noted in the specification, including abstract. Please correct these typos in response to this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-6 and 8-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tsukamoto, Masahire; JP 11046467A.

Tsukamoto, Masahire; JP 11046467A shows:

An actuator comprising:

An electric motor 1;

A screw shaft 4b connected to a rotational shaft of the electric motor in such a manner as to be capable of transmitting power;

A nut member 4a disposed on periphery of the screw shaft 4b and connected to the rotational shaft of the electric motor in such a manner as to be capable of transmitting the poser; and a ball rolling 4c within a spiral groove 4 formed between the screw shaft and the nut member, characterized in that the rotational speed of the screw shaft and the rotational speed of the nut member are different (inherent to provide axial thrust).

Re claim 2, note that both the screw shaft and nut member rotate in the same direction.

Re claim 3, the screw shaft is made stationary as shown in figure 1.

Re claim 4, it is inherent that the first gear 1g and second gear 1f have different numbers of teeth from each other to provide axial thrust. Furthermore the third gear 3B and fourth gear 2B are integrally formed as a unit, respectively, with the screw shaft and the nut member.

Re claim 5, note extended gear face 2b in figure 1.

Re claim 6, note that screw shaft 4b is made stationary in the axial direction.

Re claims 8-11, note driven member 8, which is a brake pad and bearing 6a which is a thrust bearing. Furthermore note caliper 10 as shown in figure 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 7 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tsukamoto, Masahire; JP 11046467A in view of Tsukamoto, Naohisa et al; JP 361070269A. Tsukamoto, Masahire; JP 11046467A discloses the invention substantially as claimed as set forth in the rejection of claim 1, supra. Tsukamoto, Masahire; JP 11046467A does not expressly disclose, "...characterized in that at least either the gear integrally formed on the member which is allowed to move in the axial direction or the gear on the rotational shaft which mesh with the gear is made form a resin." Tsukamoto, Naohisa et al; JP 361070269A discloses use of a nylon gear, for the purpose of reducing abrasion resistance. At the time the invention was made, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to use a nylon or resin gear in the device of Tsukamoto, Masahire; JP 11046467A. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to do this for any of reducing abrasion resistance or caliper weight.
